

ABOUT DR. BRIDGET WALKER

Dr. Walker grew up in Albuquerque, New Mexico then attended Texas Tech University for both her undergraduate and medical school education. She moved to Spokane, Washington for her internship then went on to complete her dermatology residency and Mohs micrographic surgery fellowship at Geisinger Medical Center in Pennsylvania.

While there, she was awarded both the Geisinger Compassion Award and the O. Fred Miller Golden Curette Award for treating patients with equanimity, compassion, and kindness. She is passionate about caring for patients with skin cancer and loves the precision and fine detail work that Mohs surgery requires - from the meticulous removal of the tumor, to reading the pathology under the microscope, and finally the creative aspect of designing and performing the repair.

Dr. Walker is happy to have landed back in the Mountain West. She loves spending time outdoors (with plenty of sunscreen, of course!) with her husband, young daughter, and dog. Outside of medicine, she enjoys canoeing, whitewater kayaking, skiing, and hiking.

Board Certification

- American Board of Dermatology

Post-Graduate Training

- Mohs micrographic surgery and dermatologic oncology fellowship, Geisinger Medical Center, Danville, PA
- Dermatology residency, Geisinger Medical Center, Danville, PA
- Transitional year internship, Spokane Teaching Health Center, Spokane, WA

Medical School Education

- Doctor of Medicine, Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center School of Medicine, Lubbock, TX (valedictorian, Alpha Omega Alpha)

Undergraduate Education

- Biochemistry, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, TX
(summa cum laude with honors, Phi Beta Kappa)

Professional Associations

- American Academy of Dermatology
- American College of Mohs Surgery
- American Society for Dermatology Surgery